

Write out these sentences in your books,
filling in the blank with either 'there', 'their', or 'they're'.

8th December 2020

They all had swords in hands.

There was a castle, in the middle of the desert.

I heard a noise, but when I looked was no one in the room.

I saw that skin was scaly and golden.

They have wings, but it looks as if elephants.

It doesn't look as if the people are actually human.

Each of faces looked different.

They did homework, as they'd been asked to do.

I was told leaving and not coming back.

We saw them over, on the other side of the mountain.

The frog and the sparrow told me that still sworn enemies.

A well-aimed thunderbolt will stop advance.

In London, are lots of different people.

Perhaps deadliest weapon is just beautiful music?

The king and queen cursed the bandits for stealing gold?

I saw that wearing garlands of flowers.

The elephant and the mouse shared sweets.

I still think coming, and that will be trouble.

Can you invent more sentences of your own, using 'their', 'there' and 'they're'?